

Welcome to your Workplace Insights report. You were asked to take assessments powered by Criteria Corp, and this report provides an overview of your personalized results. All of your responses were combined to create a unique profile for you. Within the report, it's important to know that there are no "good" or "bad" qualities. The results are designed to help you heighten your self-awareness and to understand how to relate better to others in the workplace.

Shivam's Report Summary

Shivam General Population

Attitudes & Outlook

Work Habits

Temperament

Interaction Style

Notable Traits

You can be described as:

Motivated

Likely seen by others as committed and driven

Cooperative

Values social harmony, inclined to seek common ground

Extroverted

Socially outgoing, gregarious, often initiates social interactions

Competitive

Innate drive to win, measures performance in comparison to others

Work, Communication & Interaction Style

Goal-Oriented.

You tend to be goal-oriented and intent on meeting or exceeding the expectations set for you. You have good follow-through on tasks when engaged with your work.

Very Cooperative.

You are likely to be very cooperative and obliging, which suggests that you will value harmony in a group situation as opposed to advancing your own interests. You are likely to place a strong emphasis on treating others fairly and with respect, which should see you viewed as someone who is considerate, trustworthy, and perhaps even selfless. Cooperativeness is a trait well suited to service-oriented roles.

Very Motivated.

You are likely to have a very strong inner drive, which should see you viewed as driven and committed. Team members will generally describe you as motivated to achieve your goals.

Extroverted.

You are more extroverted than most and can be characterized as sociable and outgoing in group settings. Extroverts tend to be energetic, enthusiastic, and active, and you may prefer roles and activities that involve frequent socialization. You should feel comfortable talking to a wide variety of people.

Temperament, Attitudes & Outlook

Competitive.

You are competitive by nature, valuing competition, and are inclined to place a high value on winning or surpassing standards of achievement set by others. In work settings, competitive individuals often excel in fields such as sales.

Strengths & Potential Challenges

Strengths

- You will generally have good follow-through and be attentive to goals.
- You are a highly motivated person with a strong inner drive.
- Your competitive nature and will to win are well suited to roles (e. g., sales) where clear, measurable, and transparent performance metrics are valued.
- Neither consistently assertive nor overly deferential, you will be assertive in some situations and not in others.
- You will likely go out of your way to accommodate other people. Your agreeable nature means you should be highly coachable, with an ideal profile for service-oriented roles.
- Sociable and energetic, you are comfortable initiating social interactions and likely enjoy working with others.
- You have a high level of curiosity and willingness to experiment. You will be comfortable in roles that evolve or change over time, or that involve many different elements. You may also exhibit creativity and "outside the box" thinking.
- Highly tolerant of frustrations and easy-going by nature, you are likely to bring a sense of calm and stability to collaborative tasks. You are likely to be more accepting of setbacks than most, and tend to be unruffled by the presence of stress or pressure.
- A high level of self-confidence suggests you will generally be free from self-doubt.

Potential Challenges

- In team settings, competitiveness has the potential to create conflict if it is not channeled or managed effectively.
- Highly cooperative individuals like you can sometimes place too much emphasis on accommodating everyone's needs. In leadership roles, you may need to make tough decisions that do not suit everyone in the team - this may be challenging for you.
- Roles that are very narrowly defined or don't involve an opportunity for a learning trajectory may be less appealing for you.
- Given your highly tolerant and relaxed nature, you may find it uncomfortable if required to act with a great sense of urgency when the situation calls for it.

Development Suggestions

Work Habits

Achievement-oriented by nature, you will benefit from being challenged to achieve even greater effectiveness in a role and to look for opportunities to further refine your strengths and apply them for greater impact.

Your strong inner motivation and drive are likely to see you do well in a variety of tasks, even in tasks that you do not find intrinsically enjoyable. This strong inner drive can be best utilized in high impact activities where your motivation should see you achieving strong outcomes.

Interaction Style

Some interactions call for a more direct approach, whereas others may require a gentler touch. When engaging with others, you should make sure to consider the situation, the people involved, and the context to help you determine the level of directness that is warranted.

You are likely someone who will put other people's needs before your own. This is likely to make you a cooperative team player. However, you will be well served by remembering that there are times where you need to put your own interests first. In doing so, you may be better positioned to help others as well as yourself.

As an extrovert, you may benefit from the realization that the most effective way to complete a task is to work hard and avoid distractions. Interacting with others is important for building relationships at work and being part of a successful team. But some tasks need to be accomplished alone. Speaking up in meetings and sharing ideas is valuable, but other people need that chance to be heard and understood. Extroverts who find themselves doing most of the talking may need to make an effort to listen more instead.

Temperament

Competitive by nature, you should look for win-win relationships. The most successful people are often those who are effective at building relationships of mutual value. Be aware and considerate of others' needs when interacting with them and focus on helping others achieve their objectives.

Given your highly tolerant and patient nature, you are likely to feel uncomfortable being rushed or pressured by others into taking immediate action. Your prioritization of stable and calm relationships can mean you are unlikely to tell others when they have disappointed you. Understanding that your time, effort, and opinions are valuable may help increase your comfort with voicing your opinions when others don't meet your expectations.

Attitudes & Outlook

Being creative and intellectually curious is a great asset in many fields. But there are times you must also realize that there is no need to use a complex solution when a simple one will do. Making sure that your solutions can be delivered on by others is also important. Being able to come up with straightforward and practical solutions can be valuable, as in addition to resolving the challenge at hand, simple solutions are more easily replicated by others.

When approaching a new task you may feel more confidence than is warranted. It's important to ensure that your confidence and self-assurance do not inhibit your willingness to prepare in advance. Often, success is the result of planning and effort.

Workplace Stressors & Motivators

The following section relates common workplace situations to your behavioral preferences, to better understand how your potential may be best realized. Situations that may be comfortable or motivating for some people may be stressful or de-motivating for others. Below is a list of common workplace situations together with an indication of how each may impact you.

